What factors contribute to a good movie?

Movies are like a mirror of our daily life. It is developed with the same speed of our life with the help of modern technology (Bakar et al., 2014). There are some factors behind a good movie.

Factors that contribute to a good movie

1. Firstly, a good story is a vital factor for a good movie. Good script and the plot come from the story and this good story may come from the historical situation (Ex: Troy), or story book wrote by a famous author (Ex: Harry Potter).

2. Secondly, Actors play a vital role as a factor. Actors play the characters and if they can do that properly, it will be more acceptable to the audience (Benson, 2013). Some actors are special in some characters. Such as Tom Hanks is in serious acting, Johnny Depp and Jim Carrey are into comedy, etc.

3. Thirdly, "The Lord of the Rings" "Avatar" come from great imagination where directors played the most responsible role. So, it can be said that a great movie comes from a director's thoughts.

4. Finally, the place where the shooting will take place is a very considerable fact. Sometime, the audience wants a versatile and lucrative place for the movie.

How to find a good movie

1. Firstly, I have to decide that what type of movie I want to watch or which actors I liked most.

2. Secondly, I will do some research through the internet. Rating of the movie is very helpful for choosing a movie. There are several types of rating such as PG-Rating, grating, R-Rating etc.

3. Sometime, Reviews help me a lot. There are so many websites to find those.

For example, I see the rating from IMDB, Rotten tomatoes, pluggedInOnline.com, or Movietowatch.tv.
